The Shoalhaven Bus Network - Part 2 HILAIRE FRASER

HE FIRST ARTICLE IN THIS SERIES featured routes services by Nowra Coaches and Kennedy's Bus and Coach. This article will detail Callala (route 120), Shoal Bus (routes 130,131,132,134,135 and 139) and Moss Vale (route 810) services. The Nowra/Shoalhaven bus network map relevant here was provided in Part 1

120 Nowra to Currarong and Callala via Myola (Nowra

Route 120 was taken over by Nowra Coaches in October 2023 as Stuart's Coaches had retired from business. Five buses were acquired by Nowra Coaches. They are still in the Stuart's off-white livery sign-written for Nowra Coaches.

The transportnsw PDF timetables found via Nowra Coaches website (page 5) is difficult to follow because some outward services are included in the inward timetable.

This difficulty can be clarified somewhat by using transportnsw's trip planner and requesting trips from Bomaderry Station to Callala Bay, and vice versa.

In this list, the (red#s) refer to the red#s on the timetable images.

Evolution of NZR South Island WTT

Letter to the Editor from MAX MICHELL

HE ARTICLE ATTRIBUTED to J A Dangerfield in the March The Times was of considerable interest. Jim Dangerfield was in the signals section (design/construct, not operate) on NZR based in Dunedin when we came across him in early 1964. I think he was also an office holder in a local NZRLS (?) group.

A group of us West Islanders spent around four weeks covering much of the then existent NZR trackage — by then well into dieselisation of the North Island, but less so in the South Island. We arrived in Dunedin off the overnight express from Christchurch on Mon 6th Jan 1964. Jim met us at some stage that morning before we set off on the first goods of the fruit season running to Ranfurly - Ab792 and a load of 33/222 tons. He probably facilitated our being on that train and certainly at some stage (probably at Ranfurly) met us with a tray of local fruit and made arrangements for us to sleep in a four-wheel van in the yard and to use the cold water shower attached to the water vat there.

Next day, we continued on to Cromwell behind Ab613:- load 10/242, being pushed up out of Ranfurly by Tr174 (rail tractor). My vague memory is that Jim was around for part of that day as well.

There are two possible reasons I can think of why Jim would write about the South Island WTT's - he was South Island and knew that part of the system well, and more importantly the South Island rail network largely came together as a whole (at least south of Christchurch) much earlier than in the North Island (the North Island was more like Queensland, with lots of regional lines but no through links until around 100 years ago).

Because I know that the Prez of ATA is a native of NZ, I feel it might be instructive to follow up what happened after we got to Cromwell. Two of us (Weston Langford and myself) went back to Milton by NZR bus and from there travelled by goods trains as follows:

Ja1258, 47/517 Milton to Invercargill very early on Wed 8th Jan; then the 10.45 goods to Wairio Ab726, 32/268, and return 18/192, getting back to Invercargill at 18.45. Straight onto the 19.19 goods to Bluff Ab721, 41/604 and return 58/641 to arrive back in Invercargill at 22.15.

Next day was a long one - 04.00 goods to Lumsden Ab803, 23/216, where we had 3.5 hours before the 10.50 Lumsden to Kingston goods - Ab 725 11/110 and return 23/182. We connected with SS Earnslaw at Kingston and transferred a bull from a stock van to the ship there. Back at Lumsden, we only had 1.5 hours before the final leg back to Invercargill (Ab803, 29/227), arriving back at 22.20.

On Friday, we gave away the goods trains and took the express to Lyttelton and TEV Hinemoa for more gallivanting round on the North Island Main Trunk (NIMT). If it is NIMT you want, there are many pages to be written about the Ka hauled overnight expresses.

All up, some of us did around 9000 km of rail travel in NZ on that occasion - something that is rather unbelievable these days.

How to split a cross-regional route? Chris Pandilovski

Sydney's third-last Metrobus route came to an end on the evening of Saturday 23 September 2023. The following day, two new routes commenced in its place. This article takes a peek into the transfer of trips from M92 into two smaller routes - 920 and 960.

Background

Between 2008 and 2011, the New South Wales Ministry of Transport implemented a series of crossregional 'Metrobus' trunk routes across Sydney. Understanding the core themes of specially-branded regular turn-up-and-go routes, they mostly replaced existing regular routes that were joined together to provide 'high frequency' cross-regional mobility seven days a week.

By state election day in March 2011, a total of 13 Metrobus routes had been implemented, with M92 (Sutherland-Parramatta) being the newest and last of them, having commenced just two weeks prior to the election. That day saw the 16-year-old Labor government tossed out in favour of a new Coalition government that quickly stamped itself on public transport, including resurrection of the flailing Waratah train project through refinancing, successful implementation of a smartcard ticketing system in Opal, and a timetable review that led to faster and less-crowded trains for passengers travelling between Sydney's outskirts and the city centre which supported strong rail patronage growth throughout the mid to late 2010s.

Watering down and demise

Having been seen in some quarters as a Labor election sweetener for voters, the Coalition were at best neutral on the Metrobus concept. With the establishment of a new over-arching state transport agency, Transport for NSW, by late 2011, and new bus operator contracts commencing across 2013 and 2014, the Metrobus system slowly commenced being watered down. The new contracts saw the requirement for all government-owned buses (whether publicly or privately operated) to be rebranded into the white/light blue Transport for NSW bus livery, including the Metrobus fleet. Despite this edict, in 2024, there remains many dozens of buses in Sydney operating with the Metrobus red livery across several operators.

For many years now, the Metrobus red buses have not been exclusive to Metrobus routes, with frequent and ongoing mixing between Metrobus and regular livery vehicles as operators sought further operational efficiencies, even for operators that no longer operate Metrobus routes at all.

Since 2019, Transport for NSW has been converting the city's Metrobus routes back into regular commuter routes, with some routes divided again into sections, while others have retained their full route with a simple renumbering back into three digits in line with other local bus services.

By the March 2023 state election, when the long-serving Coalition state government was voted out for a new Labor government, all but three of the Metrobus routes had undergone the conversion process. The three remaining Metrobus routes (M90, M91 and M92), each operated by Transdev NSW within metropolitan bus regions 10 and 13 since their formation all those years ago appeared to be on their last legs, pending the commencement of new contracts which were competitively tendered for the first time in 2022, and perhaps predictably led to the contracts being awarded to other private operators. Based on what has happened with other former Metrobus routes, the expectation would be that these three remaining Metrobus routes would be gradually unwound and converted into regular bus routes using the general three-numeral numbering system.

In early July 2023, U-Go Mobility took over the enlarged region 10 bus contract from Transdev and Punchbowl Bus Company, and it was clear from day one that the new joint-venture operator was out of its depth with driver shortages immediately leading to significant bus cancellations each day across the region as detailed at the time in copies of Table Talk. Transport for NSW agreed to U-Go operating its region 10 routes to reduced timetables from July 2023, which lasted until late February 2024.

Handover

On Saturday 23 September, M92's last trip was scheduled to depart Sutherland station at 21:00 with a short trip to the bus stop located outside Menai depot.

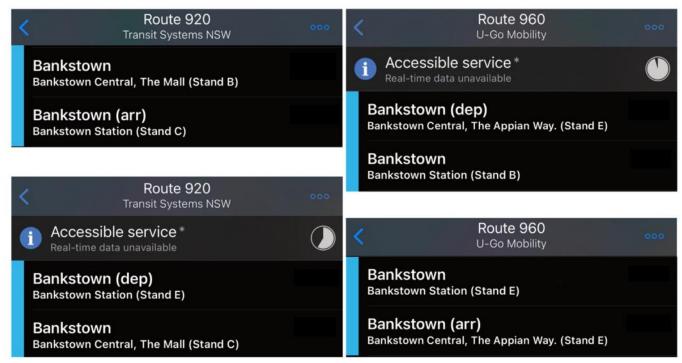

Commencing on the morning of Sunday 24 September were two new routes: 920 (Parramatta-Bankstown via Chester Hill) and 960 (Bankstown-Sutherland via Padstow). Split in half, the new routes service the same stops that the previous M92 did, with minor adjustments at Bankstown to accommodate the start and end of the two routes there. The split also saw region 3 bus operator Transit Systems temporarily take over half of the former route - the new 920 - from day one, while U-Go Mobility only kept the southern half (960), a clear admission from U-Go that they were unable to meet the needs of their recently-commenced contract.

Whilst there were probably longer-term plans to split M92, it is clear U-Go's failings accelerated the need to relieve the operator of significant dead-running tying up its limited driving resources to/from such far-flung places as Lidcombe and Parramatta which could instead be used on cancelled revenue services back within region 10.

Timetable Review - The 920 <> 960 Interchange at Bankstown

This section compares the route 920 and 960 timetables effective 24 September 2023 with the M92 timetable effective 2 December 2018 with reference to interchanging at Bankstown. The M92 timetables issued on 17 July then again on 31 July 2023 were not used for this article as they included temporary service reductions (although it appears changes for first/last services were minimal to non- existent).

Whilst the split now requires passengers travelling through Bankstown to interchange between services, a good news story for travellers has been extended evening operating hours for both routes.

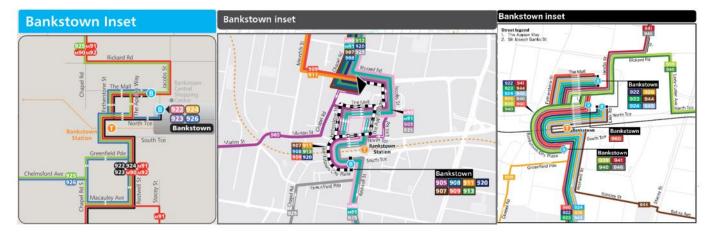

Figures 2-3 (top level): Route 920 and 960 bus stops used in direction towards Bankstown station.

Figures 4-5 (bottom level): Route 920 and 960 bus stops used in direction towards Bankstown Central.

Table 1 (Page 13) shows a comparison of the first and last timetabled services for weekdays, Saturdays and Sundays/Public Holidays. For the purposes of the review, Bankstown refers to Bankstown station, not Bankstown Central Shopping Centre. Some key locations have earlier trips on some days, while services now also operate later into the night by between one and three hours in both directions. Due to multiple early morning and late evening short-workings, a habit which continues with the new routes, singular columns in Table 1 often refer to more than one trip, with notes provided where this occurs. Of note however is the short-workings on the Sutherland end, which appear to have been standardised to run through to the bus stops located on Old Illawarra Road outside the Illawong Rural Fire Brigade building near the large roundabout, rather than using either this location and the bus stop located right outside Menai Bus Depot, meaning that short trips from Sutherland station now run past the depot to complete the trip then do a 180 degree turn at the roundabout to go back to the depot. Presumably the thinking is that the extra 2.4 kilometre run on these trips will inspire locals living along Old Illawarra Road to use these services for any short trips for travel from Sutherland station [Map page 13].

Both 920 and 960 duplicate each other between Bankstown Central Shopping Centre and Bankstown railway station, although for interchange from 920 to 960 passengers need to walk to another bus stand (Figures 2-5 above), which is not the case in the opposite direction unless one gets off at the Shopping Centre instead. In their September 2023 announcement, Transport for NSW advised passengers to interchange between services at Bankstown station.

Now and the near-future

With U-Go Mobility resuming full timetable operations on Monday 26 February 2024, its 960 timetable has been republished. However, the only time change between the September 2023 and this version is a weekday afternoon school diversion. This suggests the 960 has been operating to (and thus the operator's performance has been measured against) the regular timetable for this route since its implementation. Meanwhile, the route 920 timetable has been republished effective Monday 29 April 2024 with the service operator changing back to U-Go Mobility for a route wholly within Transit Systems' region 13.

As of March 2024, two Metrobus-numbered routes remain: M90 (Liverpool-Burwood via Bankstown) and M91 (Parramatta-Hurstville via Bankstown). A TfNSW White Paper published in October 2023 recommended the implementation of a series of cross-regional "rapid bus" routes across the city, including one between Parramatta and Hurstville via Chester Hill, Bankstown and Padstow (Table Talk, Nov 2023, p. 6), which is the path of the existing M91. The second Bus Industry Taskforce Report dated October 2023 (page 75) also provides for such a route, although it shows the route between Parramatta and Chester Hill running down Woodville Road then onto Rawson Road, it would bypass Granville station. Both documents also retain the M90 route path. It appears likely these cross-regional routes will survive, just with the inevitable renumbering.

Letter to the editor: - advertising in timetables

STEVEN HABY

AVID HENNELL'S EXCELLENT article on advertising in WA railway timetables (The Times, March 2024) saw me reach for timetables in my collection that contained informative and sometimes amusing advertisements. Like the font, colours and graphic design elements of the timetable, advertisements are a product of a point in time. I'd like to add a few specimens for the reader, extracted from timetables in my personal collection.

The first advertisement [page 16] is for Clyde Engineering (apologies for the quality of the scan) proudly promoting their successful 'ML2' model diesels that had been introduced on the Victorian Railways as their 'B' class. The advertisement is full page and appears as the cover of the November 1954 VR PTT. The hand-coloured photograph shows two 'B' class locomotives approaching North Melbourne with The Overland from Adelaide. I would question whether the South Australian Railway (SAR) management would be too happy to see Overland cars (albeit in joint stock ownership) designed and built in their own workshops in Adelaide painted in a faux VR blue and gold livery similar to that on the Spirit of Progress cars rather than the maroon and silver as they were built. Furthermore, and somewhat ironic, that the SAR had championed dieselisation (in competition with the Commonwealth Railways) on the mainland with their home -made diminutive '350' class shunters in 1949 and their English Electric powered, Alco inspired body design '900' class locomotives in 1951 some months before VR's 'B' class entered service. Competition is always healthy.

If one was feeling peckish after alighting from The Overland one might be tempted to look for sustenance with a cup of tea and a biscuit. Swallow's Biscuits had an advertisement inside the front cover which, while interesting, was somewhat light on detail in regard to products offered to the hungry consumer. Swallows commenced as Swallow and Ariell around 1854 by Thomas Swallow who emigrated from England to California in 1848 and eventually to Australia. Over the decades, they expanded into fruit growing and sugar and survived several takeover offers in the 1960s which saw the formation of the Arnott's company. Swallow had factories in Port Melbourne and Prahran (opposite the station). [Page 15 upper right]

After being sated with (perhaps) a Griffiths tea and a Swallow's biscuit or more, one might need to search for some film to add to the camera for some photography on our tour of Victoria. On page 21 of the PTT, Kodak had a full page advertisement extolling the virtues of their Super-XX and Verichrome brands. The map of Victoria is interesting. Has anyone heard of the town Tongro in the eastern part of the state?

Perhaps some shopping is called for, then let's head to Geelong and to the Myer Emporium which was in Malop Street within the CBD. Note the helpful juxtaposition of the Melbourne to Geelong timetable at the top of the page.

Advertisements were not all about food, drink and shopping. Commerce was also very important and the VR were obviously keen to ensure that those on the land were aware of opportunities for the railways to handle their produce perhaps through agents as illustrated in this advertisement. The very simple advertisement for Kennon [this page, lower right] does not include any contact details. How odd!

It's time perhaps to head to a suitable establishment for a rest before further adventures tomorrow. There are a few advertisements for hotels including the Australia Hotel as is shown below.

Editor's note: Our rear cover shows an early example of advertising in timetables—this one is from Bradshaw's Guide of 1847—formerly part of the Ian Brady Collection.
